PASCO, Washington: A Dutch Resistance Fighter survives the horrors of Buchenwald concentration camp and emigrates to the country that saved his life! Long Shall You Live is a Biography and Memoire about the life, hope and legacy of first and second-generation survivors of the Holocaust. "There are so many stories about the Holocaust that it sometimes seems as though there can't be any left to tell. And yet Marja Henderson has found a way to introduce the continuing story of our shared humanity in a new way," says Heidi Scott the book's editor.

First time author, Marja Henderson, has devoted the last several years assembling the stories of her parents to complete the puzzle they were only willing to share in pieces. Along with the extensive research Marja completed, the reader walks away feeling as though they survived the war alongside her parents. As you delve into part two you realize how important, and at times trying, her father's legacy was to carry on for the second generation of WWII survivors.

Long Shall You Live is available for purchase on Amazon for $23.99, soft cover and digital download via their website for $12.99 (Kindle and ePub).

About the Author: Marja Henderson was born on January 29, 1955 in Vlaardingen, Holland, the fifth daughter of Dominicus and Suzanna van Lith. A retired registered nurse and professional singer, she now spends much of her time being an "Oma" to her dozen grandchildren. Long Shall You Live is her first major undertaking as an author. She was committed to the challenge her parents imprinted on her about the Holocaust, to "Never forget what happened, and never let it happen again!" Her hope is that it will become an important message of strength through faith, hope, and lasting love for all who read it.
